MOELLER'S ARM IS WELL

"Dare Devil" Dan Says He Expects No
More Trouble from the Ailment.

By WILLIAM PEET.

Clyde Milan, the Tennessee Flyer, Jay Carl Cashion, the Carolina Curver, Dare Devil Dan Moeller, and the watch-charm infielder, Ray Morgan, members of the Nationals, reached Washington yesterday and announced that they were ready for the training camp season to start.

Danny Moeller has added fifteen pounds in weight since the 1912 season closed and looks the perfect picture of health. Carl Cashion is also a little overweight, while Clyde Milan, strange as it may seem, is a few pounds lighter than when he picked his favorite bat away in moth balls last October, and declares he never felt better in his life.

Milan had planned to meet Walter Johnson in Indianapolis yesterday, but probably on account of the late train. Walter did not show up at the appointed time and the outfielder decided to come right through to Washington. Johnson is expected on an early train this morning.

With Henry Hughes, Gandil, LaPorte, McBride, Engel, and Williams already in Washington, the only other regulars unaccounted for are Johnson, Foster, Schaefer, Attract, Green, and Howard Skaane, all of whom are scheduled to arrive today.

Danny Moeller's collapsible shoulder, which bothered him a lot last season, is entirely well, according to the outfielder, who asserts that it has not given him a hint of trouble all winter.

"I had an osteopath treat my shoulder for a month," Moeller said, "and he helped me a whole lot. Then I put myself through a systematic course of exercise in order to strengthen the ligaments. I feel confident that my arm will not cause me any more trouble, but, of course, I cannot tell until I have tested it out adding to a base."

When told that Griff had a lot of trouble with his arm, Moeller made him smile to hold his job in right field. Moeller laughingly replied, "The more the merrier. It is possible that Griff may pick up a man from the way I feel now, but the new-comer will have to travel some."

Moeller's added weight does not bother him in the least. He expects it will all come off before the regular season opens, and that he will be the better for it, as it will give him something on which to work.

Danny has his winter at his home in Los Angeles, and was just as optimistic as the others that the Nationals this season had a grand chance to breeze home with the pennant, provided the breaks in luck come their way.

Carl Cashion during the past month has been playing the pleasant day in an attempt to gain control. The weather down in Davidson, N. C., his home, has been ideal, he says, and he expects that he believes he has at last mastered the art of putting the ball over the plate.

The last game Cashion pitched for the Nationals was played the day after the American League season closed, when Cliff Lett a team up to Hartford, Conn., to meet a club styled the New York Yankees in charge of Hal Chase.

This exhibition was extensively criticized by the Hartford newspapers. Johnson, of Washington, and Russell Ford, of New York, were the twisters slaved to work, according to the press, but neither of them put in an appearance.

Cashion relieved Nick Attract for the Nationals after the third inning, and his bulk, coupled with tremendous speed, led him of the fans to believe that Cashion was indeed the great Johnny. In fact, the blubber bugs crowded around Cashion after the contest, everybody wanting to shake hands with him and crying out, "Oh, you Johnson! You're some pitcher!"

Strange to relate, during that game Cashion had almost perfect control. He only allowed a couple of walks, he threw eight or nine, and did not give a base on balls.

"The fans admit to be a little under weight, but he claims to a winter spent in hard work, with long hunting trips to break the monotony, but the crack outfielder is not worrying. He will probably be ordered to take things easy for a couple of weeks, as Griff will handle take chances on Milan's going into mid-season."

Ray Morgan announces that he is here until the regulars start for Charlottesville Tuesday. He is a trifle heavy, but as full of confidence as ever that he will be Griff's regular second baseman this season.

Long Tom Hughes during a conversation with the writer recently said he was glad to hear that Griff intended to give young Schaefer another chance this season. Hughes believes that Schaefer has the makings of a great little ball player.

It will be remembered that last year while in Charlottesville Schaefer was afflicted with quincy, and was in no kind of shape to do himself justice. He was sent back to Youngstown, Ohio, where he was purchased, and during the summer played such grand ball that Griff put in a draft for him.

Schaefer can play second base and also the outfield, and may upset a lot of dogs, as did young Howard Shanks during the 1912 season.

BASKET-BALL AND POLO.

Princeton Meets Hilltoppers in Cage Game at Arcade To-night.

The Princeton basketball team is here, ready and fit for their game with Georgetown To-night at the Arcade. The Hilltoppers team is out to settle an old score which they met early in the season at the hands of the Tigers, and Coach Culliford has left nothing untended to round his five into the best of condition for this special occasion.

Besides the game of basketball, there will be a game of roller polo this evening between Washington and Baltimore, and the team from the latter city, snarling under the several defeats administered to them lately by the local quint, has announced that the latter is about due for a good, old-fashioned beating. But the Whittings can't see it just that way, and have prepared to give the Baltimore players all the excitement they are looking for.

LOOKS FOR GOOD SEASON.

JOE GEIBLE.

Local boy, who will again do the pitching for the Savannah Club of the South Atlantic League. Joe says he will not be in the Sally circuit all season.

PANZARETTA IS BEST THREE-YEAR-OLD

Texas Filly Earns Title at Juarez,
Winning the Chapultepec
Stakes.

BIG SUNDAY CROWD IS OUT

Juarez, Mexico, March 2.—Panzaretta, a Texas-bred filly, proved her title to the local three-year-old championship at Juarez this afternoon when she pulled up 122 pounds in the Chapultepec Stakes.

The filly was coupled in the betting with Vested Rights, both horses carrying the colors of J. F. Newman. The entry listed favorite at all times. With Lofius in the saddle, Panzaretta never gave her backers any uneasiness at any stage of the running. She won in handy fashion, with Columbus in company in front of Trudy. The latter made up a world of ground from a poor beginning, and finished with a rush. Vested Rights was fourth and Lewin fifth. The weather was ideal and the track in superb condition. Summary:
